The Sindall Group began making its mark in the transport business more than a half century ago, hauling hay to the sale barns of New Holland, Pennsylvania, from its original home base in Ontario, Canada. Sindall trucks would then be loaded with new balers produced by New Holland Machine — now Case New Holland LLC—for the trip back. On the strength of Sindall's alliance with this now international leader in farm machinery, the trucking company made New Holland its permanent base of operations in 1965.

Since then, Sindall Transport has become a prominent presence in the transport industry, growing dramatically in volume and product diversity. The scope and variety of Sindall's fleet provides for the handling, hauling, and warehousing of farm machinery and food products . . . steel, aluminum, and lumber . . . roofing materials and building supplies . . . fabricated parts, truck bodies, and boilers . . . and a wide range of general commodities.

Prudent planning has enabled the company to expand to meet customer demand, and Sindall services now include equipment leasing, truck servicing, a truck wash, fuel island, truck parts, freight brokerage, warehousing and distribution. Occupying a ten-acre campus in the heart of Lancaster County, Sindall is strategically situated to serve its diversified customer base.

Sindall is a proud example of enduring family businesses that supply their customers with vital goods and services. In concert with these customers, they play a critical role in the growth and prosperity of the nation.

Douglas and Donald Sindall, sons of founder Don M. Sindall, guide growth and operations. A third generation of the family works throughout the company.

Every Sindall employee is dedicated to improving efficiency and profitability for their customers. And every department is focused on providing unsurpassed customer service—around the clock and around the country—for generations to come.

TRANSPORT

Sindall Transport's fleet includes refrigerated trailers, dry vans, flatbeds, step-decks, side-kit trailers, Conestoga trailers, and detachable double-drop trailers. The dispatch department is well known for its first-rate expediting and tracking. Every load is carefully monitored so that after the delivery, answers to billing and inventory questions are at the dispatcher's fingertips.

By holding the line on pricing while striving to provide the very best services, Sindall's dispatchers have earned an enduring reputation for excellence in their industry.

Efficiency, safety, and concise communications underscore every delivery when Sindall is behind the wheel.

FREIGHT BROKERAGE

Sindall takes care of its customers. That means that if they can't accommodate the freight, the freight brokerage division can. They maintain a network of highly reputable carriers for jobs that may need to go to an area that Sindall doesn't routinely service, or for LTL hauls.

This system allows for efficiency in Sindall's warehouse and transport business, and supports the industry by contributing to the profitability of other trucking companies. Freight brokerage relies on the mutual respect and communal approach that is typical of the central Pennsylvania transport industry. It works to everyone's advantage by using human resources and valuable equipment to get products where they need to go, expeditiously and cost-effectively. And that is what matters to the customer.

TRUCK SERVICE

Sindall Truck Service is fully equipped to handle the maintenance and repair needs of all size trucks—for their own fleet, and for private owners and companies in the area. Sindall's services include major repairs, engine repair and diagnostics, fleet maintenance, A/C repair, transmissions, and trailer repair. They also offer emissions inspection and state inspection for cars and light trucks. This state-of-the-art facility includes a truck lift, truck wash, and fuel island.

The availability of an on-site parts department, Class 8 Parts, gives the service staff an edge in keeping all trucks on the road.

WAREHOUSING & DISTRIBUTION

The addition of 131,000 square feet of warehouse space was a natural development in Sindall's commitment to broaden the company to meet customer demand. The expansion brings the company's total square footage to about 285,000 square feet.

Sindall trucks, LTL, truckload carriers, and express package carriers deliver the goods to and from the warehouses. The company's rail siding further enhances shipping and receiving capabilities.

Value-Added Services and Fulfillment

Sindall also offers fulfillment services to customers who need containers hand-unloaded, products repackaged, orders fulfilled, or individual items personalized.

Products sold by well-known national retailers are shipped to Sindall, where they are customized and then delivered to retailers, end customers, or other destinations.

Sindall Warehouses include numerous dock doors, from standard to grade-level ramps to indoor bays. Storage options run the full gamut from pallet racks to bulk to outdoor. A broad range of equipment—pallet jacks to 30,000-pound capacity forklifts—gets the job done.

Goods ranging from food products made in Lancaster County to erosion control materials from Asia are stored in these facilities. Sindall provides heated, food-grade, and general storage for items as diverse as vitamins and lotions . . . toys and toiletries . . . door mats and car wash supplies . . . lumber and packaging material . . . baler twine and machinery for egg grading.

Sindall's skilled workforce, state-of-the-art computers, and extensive tracking and reporting help assure an average error rate that is less than a hundredth of a percent.

SINDALL'S COMMITMENT TO SAFETY

Sindall is dedicated to the most stringent safety standards, and their exemplary driver training and testing programs underscore that commitment. Many Sindall drivers have passed the million-mile safe-driving mark, and will soon join the Sindall drivers who have earned awards for surpassing two million safe-driving miles.

The company is able to attract and maintain an outstanding group of drivers because they invest in them with top-of-the-line equipment, skilled dispatchers, strong incentive programs, and schedules that are devised to suit their lifestyles.

Sindall drivers bring courtesy and expertise to every customer and every transport, as if the very future of the company depends on it. Because it does.
